

The Nifty50s website publishes three times per week (Monday, Wednesday and Friday – excluding holidays) to present news, information and advice including job seeking tips and opinions as well as alternatives to traditional employment. Our overriding goal is to find suitable employment for job seekers over the age of 50. Any articles, videos, podcasts, etc. which we feel will further that end is a candidate to be included. We do not endorse any particular method or product but rather attempt to present any and all alternatives which we feel are credible. It is up to the individual job seekers to determine what is best suited for their personal job searches.
